

MGH Wins Scale Up Category at EIC National Awards 2025

[London, November 2025] — MGH is proud to announce that it has been named the winner of the Scale Up category at the EIC National Awards 2025, marking a significant milestone in the company's growth journey.

This prestigious recognition highlights the innovation, resilience and strategic vision that underpin MGH's continued expansion. The award reflects the collective effort of the MGH team, whose dedication, collaboration and commitment to excellence have been central to achieving this success.

The EIC National Awards celebrate organisations that demonstrate outstanding leadership and impact through the Survive & Thrive initiative, recognising strategies that are helping to shape the future of the global energy supply chain. MGH is honoured to be acknowledged among this group of forward-thinking companies driving meaningful change across the sector.

Commenting on the achievement, Matthew Lynn, founder and Managing Director of MGH emphasised that the award is not only a recognition of past accomplishments, but also a strong endorsement of the company's direction and ambition as it continues to scale.

"At MGH, our mission remains clear: to generate value — for our people, within our business, and for our customers. This award reinforces our belief in what we are building and energises us for the exciting journey ahead as we continue to grow and deliver impact."

MGH extends its sincerest thanks to the EIC for recognising the work being done through the Survive & Thrive initiative, and to everyone who has supported the company along the way.
